Pupils should be taught about:

- changes within living memory. Where appropriate, these should be used to reveal aspects of change in national life
- events beyond living memory that are significant nationally or globally [for example, the Great Fire of London, the first aeroplane flight or events commemorated through festivals or anniversaries]
- the lives of significant individuals in the past who have contributed to national and international achievements. Some should be used to compare aspects of life in different periods [for example, Elizabeth I and Queen Victoria, Christopher Columbus and Neil Armstrong, William Caxton and Tim Berners-Lee, Pieter Bruegel the Elder and LS Lowry, Rosa Parks and Emily Davison, Mary Seacole and/or Florence Nightingale and Edith Cavell]
- significant historical events, people and places in their own locality

Approach to History

At Alexandra Junior School, we teach history in either half termly or termly units spread out throughout the year. Every child will have two hours of history a week during the unit. To allow children to become historians, the curriculum has been designed to help children gain a coherent understanding and the appropriate knowledge of Britain's past and that of the wider world. The National Curriculum states that history teaching 'should equip pupils to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement'. As the children move through the school, they will develop these skills at a deeper level. At Key Stage two, children continue to develop the sense of chronology. They secure their knowledge and understanding of a range of British, local and World history, establishing clear accounts of events within the periods they study. They begin to note connections, contrasting views and trends over time. A key focus within the teaching of history is the correct use of historical terms. As language is a key focus, given the school context, it is central to our teaching. Further on in the document, the way in which we approach this will be explained in more detail.

Learning from a range of sources becomes more prominent throughout the key stage and by Year Six, they will construct informed responses that involve thoughtful selection and organisation of relevant historical information.

When planning the curriculum, we ensure that we combine both overview and depth studies to help our pupils to understand both the long arc of development and the complexity of specific aspects of the content.

The National Curriculum for history aims to ensure that all pupils:

- know and understand the history of these islands as a coherent, chronological narrative, from the earliest times to the present day: how people's lives have shaped this nation and how Britain has influenced and been influenced by the wider world
- know and understand significant aspects of the history of the wider world: the nature of ancient civilisations; the expansion and dissolution of empires; characteristic features of past non-European societies; achievements and follies of mankind

Subject Overview 2022/23: History
Curriculum and Pedagogy

- gain and deploy a historically grounded understanding of abstract terms such as 'empire', 'civilisation', 'parliament' and 'peasantry'
- understand historical concepts such as continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity, difference and significance, and use them to make connections, draw contrasts, analyse trends, frame historically-valid questions and create their own structured accounts, including written narratives and analyses
- understand the methods of historical enquiry, including how evidence is used rigorously to make historical claims, and discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past have been constructed
- gain historical perspective by placing their growing knowledge into different contexts, understanding the connections between local, regional, national and international history; between cultural, economic, military, political, religious and social history; and between short- and long-term timescales.

Our curriculum is designed so that the skills the children require progress as they move from Foundation stage to Key Stage 2. Consultations have been held with the feeder Infant School co-ordinator to ensure that skills progress from those taught at the Infant School and repetition is limited. Pre-cueing of vocabulary is encouraged to ensure that the key vocabulary relating to the topic is retained by all learners. We use a 3-tier vocabulary approach which is revisited regularly to enable understanding and retention. Pre-cueing of vocabulary is a regular focus for our EAL and SEND pupils.

Knowledge mats are available for all units taught and these are used during classes. These knowledge mats consist of key vocabulary and their definitions, books that link to that area and the sticky knowledge which should be retained by the children. The history lessons support our school context-based drivers, the 5Es (Excel yourself, Embrace yourself, Explore the world, Engage with others, Express yourself). These are explicitly shared with the children. Every unit has VIP's (very important points), which are shared with the children and it is this knowledge that the children should be able to recall when asked further down the line.

A key focus within the curriculum is the idea of retention and that the children should be able to recall learnt facts further down the line. With this in mind, the children will be assessed at least half a term after the original teaching. The children will be assessed on their understanding of key vocabulary and learnt skills. The idea behind this is that the knowledge is able to be retained in the child's long-term memory which means that it can be recalled at a later date.

Children are required to gain a better understanding of key events within history. By teaching the curriculum in the way that the school is, we are providing children with adequate time to gain this understanding. This provides the children with the knowledge and skills they require to be Key Stage three ready by the time they leave the school in Year 6.

Below is a timetable of when each unit is taught in Key Stage 2. The units highlighted in green are the history units.

SEND/Scaffolding

Our history curriculum allows for inclusivity, allowing all children to engage with their lessons. It is our belief that all children have an equal right to a broad and balanced curriculum, which enables them to meet their full potential. Through our teaching, we provide learning opportunities that enable all pupils to make good progress. We strive hard to meet the needs of those pupils with special educational needs, those with disabilities, those who are deemed more-able and talented and those learning English as an additional language, and we make all reasonable adjustments to achieve this. More guidance on how we achieve this can be found in the Inclusion in history document.

SMSC

Spiritual development in history aims to foster the mystery of how and why events in the past happened and the reasons behind this. It helps children to realise the significance that key individuals have had on the past and see similarities and differences between people now and in the past.

Moral development in history aims to encourage pupils to comment on moral questions and dilemmas from the past. This will aid the children to empathise with the decisions that people from the past had to make. They will also become more open minded when considering the actions and decisions of people from the past.

Social development encourages the children to think about what societies from the past have done for us. In history, it promotes the child's own social development through collaboration with their peers and problem solving.

Cultural development in history develops a better understanding of our own multicultural society through studying links between local, British, European and world history. It allows children to gain an understanding of and develop empathy with people from different cultures.

Reading for learning

Reading for learning is encouraged to enable learners to gain more information about the units being covered. E.G. evidence in guided reading sessions. Each year group also has a box of books for reading around the curriculum. Within this box, there are books for every unit covered, these are for use before, during and after units are taught.

Subject Overview 2022/23: History Curriculum and Pedagogy

Assessment and Record keeping

Formative assessment

Assessment is an integral part of every subject. The children are continuously assessed before, during and after the lessons. After each lesson, the children will be assessed using an 'I can' statement. For each lesson, there will be a knowledge learning objective and a skill learning objective. This will be shown on the appropriate page in the floor book. The children will be RAG rated on how they have achieved the particular knowledge or skill they have been working on. Green will show that the child has achieved ARE within that lesson. If the name is not coloured, then that means that they are not working at ARE. The word 'absent' will be put next to the name if the child was away during the lesson. This assessment will inform a teacher's judgement as to whether they are age related at the end of the unit. Any of the 5Es that are relevant to the lesson will be noted next to the learning objective on the 'I can' statement.

Summative assessment

At the end of a unit, the teacher will use the formative assessment from the lessons, both knowledge and skills, to make an overall judgement on whether the child has achieved ARE or are WTS. Retention of knowledge is supported and assessed through a range of mini quizzes revisited regularly.

Trips and visitors

Trips and visitors are encouraged to engage the children further in their learning. These are encouraged towards the beginning of a unit of work, allowing the children to become fully immersed in the unit. Previous trips have included visits to the Dewa Centre in Chester to learn more about the Romans, Westport lake for a Stone age experience and Stafford Castle for the Anglo Saxons. We also welcome visitors to the school and for the last few years, Year 3 and 4 have welcomed Portals to the Past in to school to hold whole days filled with learning about the Ancient Egyptians and the Ancient Greeks. We also make connections with key events that happen within the world and celebrate specific historical days in the calendar. Examples include National Day of Reflection, Black History Month and the Queen's Platinum Jubilee.

Learning Recovery (KS2)

In light of missed learning due to COVID 19, recovery provision has been planned for and is detailed in specific year group catch up plans. These have been formulated through collaboration of SLT, subject leaders, teachers and across the Key Stage with the feeder Infant School. These plans will be reviewed, modified and RAG rated regularly to inform future teaching & learning. For further detail please see each year group's separate plans.
